London, Oct. 11, 1869.

The Chinese Embassy are making progress in their preliminary arrangements for negotiation with the British government.

It is reported that Mr. Burlingame finds that Lord

Stanley is not unfriendly to the policy proposed by China and that he is ready to treat the question on the broad ground of civilization rather than from the purely English point of view urged by the London Times. It is understood that the Ambassadors will be received by Queen Victoria on the 20th of the present month. After their reception by the Queen the embassy will make a visit to Paris.

Mr. Gladstone's Election Platform-The Disraeli Party Arguments.

London, Oct. 11, 1888.

Mr. Gladstone's address to the electors of South Lancashire is praised by the liberal organs, who contrast its frank and positive tone with the vague and negative utterances of Mr. Disraeli. The tory journals do not take up the "No Popery" cry of the Premier, but rest the claims of their party in the Parliamentary canvass on the brilliant foreign policy of the Ministry, the success of the Abyssinian war, the necessity for the defence of the Church of England from the dangers by which it is menaced and the maintenance of the strictest economy in the public expenditures. On the latter point, he they are sharply assailed by the whigs, who point out the wide inconsistency which exists between the precepts and practices of the party in power.

WASHINGTON

-- WASHINGTON, Oct. 11, 1868. Interest in the Approaching Elections.

As the day of the elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana draws near, the excitement in regard to the probable result increases in intensity among the politicians here. Political discussions are now the order of the day, and two men rarely meet but views of the election are exchanged. No settled im-pression can be obtained of the probable issue by canvassing with men who claim to be expert in fore-telling the drift of popular opinion, for the wiseacres on both sides are so confident that victory will perch upon their banners and express themselves so elo-quently in support of their views that the more one inquires into the subject the less courage one has to form an opinion.

The Alleged Cretan Diplomatic Agent. The members of the diplomatic corps here have been greatly amused by an announcement in several newspapers a few days since that the Cretan government had appointed a Mr. Julius Augustus Bing, or Berg, as its diplomatic agent in the United States. Mr. Berg, who enjoys the reputation of having been elevated to such distinguished honor, has for years past been a sort of hanger on to the different legations here. He is a man of rather more than ordinary attainments, but very eccentric in man ners and dress. He is regarded as an inveterate gossip, and as such, more than for any other reason, he is received among the foreign legations on a footing something like famili-arity. The idea of Mr. Berg being selected to represent the struggling Cretan government does not seem so very absurd to those who know him, as they see a peculiar fitness in the appointment; but it is the assumption of the dignity and importance of a Minister from a recognized government that causes so much merriment. The truth of the whole matter is, that what is known as the insurrectionary committee of Crete, claiming to be the provisional govhave authorized Mr. Julius A. Berg to act as agent for them in the United States, and his principal business, it is alleged, is to warp public opinion here in such a manner that the people of this country will recognize in said committee of insurgents the lawful government of Crete. Mr. Seward, having been asked in relation to the report, answered that he knew nothing about either the government of Crete or its diplomatic agent. A joker here said the other day that Berg's title was 'Agent Diplomatique du Gouvernement Provisoire des Crétans."

Revenue Instructions-Tax on Distilled Spirits The Internal Revenue Bureau has just issued regu-lations and instructions concerning the tax on dis-tilled spirits, supplemental to those of August last. lery warehouse has been provided and established under the act of July 6, and no distillery permitted to start until a storekeeper has been assigned to such warehouse by the Commissioner. No deduction will be made upon the capacity tax on suspension of work until the required notices are given to the assistant assessor. Any maching or distilling done at night or any other time when the storekeeper is not present is pro-hibited. From and after the 1st of November stamps for distilled spirits will be required and be used in all cases as provided by law. The stamps are engraved and bound in book form. The books of tax 100 each. The value of the books, other than those of tax paid stamps, is $100 each, and the value of the tax paid stamps ranges from $4,350 to $20,850 according to the number of gallons represented. The instructions are specific both as to the duties of the distillers and government officers. The Commis sioner says:-

The abolition of the office of revenue agents and revenue inspectors throws an increased responsibility upon the local officers of the several districts, and it depends mainly upon their action whether or not the provisions of the new law can be enforced and illicit distillation suppressed, and they will be held to strict accountability for the enforcement of the law in their several districts.

The Late Barthquake in Chile-Letter from The following is published by direction of the Be-partment of State:—

UNITED STATES CONSULATE,
VALPARAISO, Sept. 3, 1863.

Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State:—

SIR—I have the honor to enclose to you slips cut from the newspapers of this city giving a detailed account of the disaster caused by the terrible earthquake on the coast on the 13th of August, extending from the Chinca Islands, in the North, to Lota, in the South—a distance of more than 2,000 miles—and extending far into the interior in Peru, almost entirely desiroying the city of Arequipa, of 20,000 inhabitants. Singularly and fortunately no damage was done at this port, the only thing observable being a heavy swell of some ten feet rolling into the bay just at sunset.

Several places on the coast south of Valparaiso have been entirely swept away—not a stone left upon another to mark the spot where they stood.

upon another to mark the spot where they stood.

So soon as the disasters at the north were made known here by telegraph a public meeting was convened and the sum of $40,000 subscribed to purchase and forward provisions to the destitute.

Large contributions in clothing were also made.

chase and forward provisions to the destitute. Large contributions in clothing were also made. Congress, being in session, appropriated $50,000 for the same object. Being at Santiago at the time I tendered the government the use of the United States steamer Tuscarora, then in the harbor, to transport these contributions to the distressed, which was gladly accepted; but subsequently it was found that other vessels were at hand better adapted to the survice, and the Tuscarora was not used.

This terrible and widespread disaster has cast a deep gloom over everybody, and business for the time is entirely suspended save in the effort to relieve the unfortunate. The business houses of this city, having generally branches or agencies at the several ports destroyed, suffer largety. A large number of vessels in the merchant service have been lost. Nearly all the towns on the coast north are supplied with fresh water from the interior by distillation, and as all of the apparatus for distillation has been swept away at all the ports great suffering must have been experienced before aid could reach them.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

MUSICAL AND THEATRICAL NOTES.

Grand Duchess Rose Bell, of the Théâtre Français, olds undisputed possession at present of the field of a bouffe in this city, and will continue to do so natil Wednesday evening next, when a rival Grand Duckes will appear at Pike's, backed up with a large and well disciplined vocal army. Meanwhile Madame Bose Bell will delight her numerous ad-mirers with her original and stately interpretation of the imperious Duchess, who, though dignified, so far forgets herself as to fall desperately in love with a stupid, blubbering doit, whose only recommendation is his lack of common sense. Large and fast-lonable audiences nightly greet Madame Rose Bell in this particular rôle, but they are of that austere and phlegmatic order which is always so dispiriting to the true artist and which very often chills the whole performance. Despite, however, this damaging drawback, Madame Rose Bell is fast gaining a hold upon the public which may prove more lasting in the long run than if at the outset she had taken the en-tire music loving portion of our community by storm. She has voice, looks, figure and the grace of an accomplished actress in her favor, and will un-questionably be a general favorite yet with our citizens, if not in opera bouffe, then beyond a doubt in opera comique. There is no denying that the public do not take kindly to, nor are they in sympathy with, the Grand Duchess as rendered by Madame Rose Bell. This may be owing to the fact of their having become too thoroughly familiarized with the same character as heretofore rendered in this city to have their ideas of what it should be upset in a hurry, or it may be that Madame Rose Bell's conception of the character is too haughty and magnificent to suit the buffoonery of M. Carrier's Fritz, or Fritz, as here portrayed, is probably too much of a verdant blockhead to harmonize nicely with Madame Rose Bell's regal Grand Duchess. But be this as it may, Madame Rose Bell's rendition of the Grand Duchess is dignified and grand both as regards her singing and acting, and as there remains but three nights more for the public to witness her in this familiar rôle it is more than likely that the house will be crowded every night. On Thursday evening next Mile. Marie Desclauzas will make her American début at this establishment as the Grand Duchess, supported by the entire efficient company that are now performing in that sparkling opera.

Pike's Opera House opens for the season on Wednesday evening next, under the management of Mr. H. B. Bateman. Operas bouffes, given by artists already favorably known to New Yorkers, will be the principal attraction; but operas comiques will likewise be served up at this establishment to tick the their ideas of what it should be upset in a hurry, or H. B. Bateman. Operas boulles, given by artists already favorably known to New Yorkers, will be the principal attraction; but operas confiques will likewise be served up at this establishment to tickle the intellectual palate of the public. Every preparation has been made for bringing out the various operas in a superior style, and arrangements have been perfected whereby persons living at inconvenient distances from the Opera House will be enabled to reach it and return again to their homes without experiencing much difficulty. Stages will leave Union square and the Fifth Avenue Hotel every two minutes for the seat of war from half-past six until half-past eight o'clock every evening, and the same facilities for returning will be afforded to the public after each night's performance. The "Grand Duchess" is the piece announced for the opening night, with Mile. Tostee in the title role. Mile. Lambelé as Wands, Mr. Aujac as Fritz and Messrs. Leduc and Duchesne in their original characters of Prince Paul and General Boum. Two rival duchesses will then be on the boards at the same time, at as many separate theatres in the city, and the indulgent public will doubtiess hear and see both before deciding in favor of either. Mile. Irma, who is now in St. Louis, will return to this city early in November, when she will join the forces operating at Pike's, and will probably make her rentres before the New York public in the role of the Grand Duchesses in this city before the season is over as can convenently rule at the same time in one duchy; but we suppose the motto will be "the more the merrier."

The "Slack Crook" and "White Fawn" ballets hav-about as many Grand Duchesses in this city before the season is over as can conveniently rule at the same time in one duchy; but we suppose the motto will be "the more the merrier."

The "Black Crook" and "White Fawn" ballets having held their last fandango on the boards at Niblo's Garden on Saturday evening last, that establishment returns this evening to the "legitimate drama," with Mr. Edwin Forrest as King Lear. With the departure of the glory of the giggling girls in gauze we are led to expect a season of brilliant novetics at Niblo's, which will be far more remunerative to the management and more satisfactory to the general public than was the last filmsy sensation of tapha, taristans and tittering angels at this house. Mr. Forrest's engagement extends only to twenty nights, during which he will play but five nights in each week, and will be ably supported by a strong company, that numbers among its members such well known names as Messrs. George H. Chark, Mordaunt, Burroughs, Burnett, Warwick and Mariowe and Madame Ponisi and Misses Little and De Lund. Matida Heron will also appear at this establishment for four successive Saturday evenings—the off nights of Mr. Forrest—in her great impersonation of Camille. Miss Fanny Janauschek, the popular German tragédienne, continues but for one week longer at the Academy of Music. "Mary Stuart" is announced for this evening and "Katharina the Second" for Wednesday night, with Miss Janauschek in the leading roles. The present engagement of this accomplished actress has been deservedly successful and she has succeeded in adding many new laurels to ber already world wide reputation. Next week she opens in Boston, where a hearty welcome is certain to be extended to her.

Wallack's floats prosperously on its course over the sea of success, and so admirable is the good ship manned, womaned and handled that no rule bufferings of adverse public opinion ever assails it. "Humpty Dumpty" undergoes a second reconstruction this evening at the Olympic, but as he is unquestionably endowed with a wonderful vitality there is scarcely any danger but that he will survive the operation. The ballet will be enlarged and reorganized, the personnel of which, with the exception of Mile. Sangail, will be entirely new to this theatre. The Wednesday matinees at this establishment will be resumed this week.

"No Thoroughfare" is still the attraction at the Broadway theatre, with Mr. William Florence in his great artistic impersonation of Obenreizer. The piece abounds in beautiful tableaux and sensational situations, is strongly cast, handsomely mounted and will doubtless enjoy a long and brilliant run.

Mr. Charles Gayler's last sensational drama, entitled "Out of the Streets," is proving a trump card at the New York, at which theatre it has been brought out with due regard to scenery and proper stage appointments. It will probably hold possession of the boards for weeks to come.

"Ixion," the wickdest man in mythology, as personated by Miss Lydia Thompson at Wood's Museum, is the burlesque sensation of the week. Standing room only is obtainable by those who come late, and large and delighted audiences are nightly the results of the elever acting of this accomplished artist and her dashing troupe.

"The Crimson Shield," with its attendant "nymphs of the rainbow," as brought out at the Bowery, has completely revolutionized the east side of town, and even "boot blacks may now be seen trying to pirouette upon the tops of their little boxes. The ballet and transformation scenes have launched the stanch old Bowery upon a sea of success, and not undeservedly.

At the Théatre Comique Miss Susan Gaiton and the English opera bouge troupe will be the star attraction this week. The operetts of "Fanchette" will be given this evening for the first time in this country, and the mimic Lingard will favor his patrons with a number of new sketches.

Mile. Turnour, the daring female gymnast, continues to electrify her audiences at Tony Pastor's Opera House with her perilous feats on the fying trapeze. Many new features have been added to the bills for the present week, not the least of which is the new drams entitled "The South in 188s."

The New York Circus is crowded nightly with delighted audiences, whom the antics of clowns and balky horses apparently never fail to please.

This is the last week of the great magician Signor Bitz at Dodworth Hall. Signor Bitz has grown gray in the public service, and stands pre-eminent among the first wizards of the world.

A Montana Tragger.—Ex-Governor S. W. Beall, of Wisconsin, was shot in the counting room of the Post, between the hours of two and three o'clock this afternoon, by George M. Pinney, the manager of the paper. This lamentable altercation originated in several scurrilous and bitterly abusive articles refecting upon Governor Beau, published by Mr. Pinney in the Post. On account of these articles Colonel Heali first visited the office of the Post on Wednesday, and demanded of Pinney a retraction of the slanderous attacks upon his character, or to give him the satisfaction of a gentleman. Mr. Pinney drew his Derringer and peremptorily ordered him to leave. He appealed to Marshal Howie, who was present, for a pistol for an equitable settlement of the matter then and there. This was not granted, and Colonel Beall, again ordered to leave and still threatened by Pinney's pistol, took his departure. He again visited the office to-day, when some words took place between the Colonel and Pinney, the only other person present being Mr. Pinney's partner, John Potter, our incorruptible and worthy Postmaster. Colonel Beall was there shot down by Pinney, who fred twice. The first shot lodged in the front wall of the room and the second ball struck the gray-headed old man a little beneath the left eye, and ranged downward, inflicting a terribic wound, felling him instantly to the floor, where he lay insensible in a pool of blood.

The Working Women's Professive Union.—

THE WORKING WOMEN'S PROTECTIVE UNION .-This association is doing an effective and benevolent work for the unfriended laboring women of this city. The semi-annual report of the society shows that its officers have not been idle and that much substantial good has, in an unostentatious manner, been done. In the past six months 4,340 applica-tions in the various trades were made, of which 790 were from strangers. In this period the Union found were from strangers. In this period the Union found employment for 1,862 persons, for children of ten years to gray-haired women of seventy-eight, and irrespective of creed or nationality. For the support (while unemployed) of these women $4,161 bave been collected from the benevolent and wholly expended. And whenever in behalf of any of its clients an appeal to the courts of law was found necessary, the Union defrayed the necessary expenses and paid over the amount of the claim to the complainant without any deduction whatever. In many ways this Union has proved a real blessing to the unemployed poor.

ARREST ON THE CALIFORNIA STEAMER.-Last evening, on the arrival of the California steamer Juiding Star, detectives Irving and Coyle, of the Central Office, boarded her and arrested a man named Walter B. Griffiths on the authority of a telegram from Chief of Police Lees, of San Francisco for grand larceny. It seems that Griffiths was em ployed as a travelling agent of an insurance com ployed as a travelling agent of an insurance company and in that capacity called upon a sub-agent of the company in one of the upper towns. While there he received a letter from his wife announcing that she was quite ill and requesting his immediate return to San Francisco. On his departure the agent handed him $600 and requested him to take it down to San Francisco, without instructing him where to deliver it. On his arrival in the city he found his family suffering and expended the money in tickets for New York, for himself and family, where he arrived last night as already stated, with the above result. Griffiths seems to be quite unconcerned at the arrest, as it will be difficult to make more than a breach of trust out of the transaction. He was locked up at the central office last night, and his family proceeded to a hotel.

CRUEL CONPIDENCE SWINDLE—AN INVALID TRAY-

CRUEL CONFIDENCE SWINDLE—AN INVALID TRAV-ELLER THE VICTIM.-William Turner, a resident, of Nassau, in the State of Michigan, where he has been employed as school teacher, arrived in this city on his health. He secured board at No. 172 Bleecker street, and the day following his arrival Turner went aboard the steamer Ocean Queen, foot of Canal street, North river, with the view of securing pas-sage for the Golden State. While on the steamer sirect, North river, with the view of securing passage for the Golden State. While on the steamer Turner was accosted by Tom Boyd, alias Thomas Allen, a well known confidence operator, whose likeness adorns the Rogues' Gallery at the Central Office, who represented that he was also from the State of Michigan, and intended sailing on the Ocean Queen for California with his family and a stock of goods. Having gained the confidence of Turner, Boyd asked him to go ashore and take a walk as they had plenty of time. On the pier Turner was introduced to a stranger and after learning what amount of money the Western gentleman had Boyd and his confederate proposed to borrow the entire amount and give him as security what purported to be a $1,000 government bond. Turner requested him to loan them $285 till they could go to the bank and get the bond cashed. This unfortunately he consented to do and after obtaining the countryman's cash the brace of swindlers hastened from his spresence and the city with all possible speed, and it was not till a few days ago Boyd ventured to return. After his loss Turner reported the fact to the Central Omce, when detectives Irving and Coyle went in search of the swindlers and yesterday succeeded in securing Boyd, but his confederate is still at large. Turner on being confronted with the prisoner instantly recognized him as the man to whom he paid the money. Turner lost all his money with the exception of a few doilars, and has since been compelled to pawn a portion of his clothing to raise money upon which to live. The accused was arraigned before Justice Hogan at the Tombs and committed for examination. An effort will be made to furnish Turner the means with which to continue his journey to California.

OBSEQUIES OF GENERAL GATES.

One of the best ordered, if not the most imposing, military pageants that New York has witnessed took piace yesterday. The occasion was the funeral of the late Brevet Brigadier General William Gates, United States army, who died in this city on Wed-nesday last at the advanced age of eighty years. The arrangements for the funeral were made by Brevet Major General Butterfield, at the request of Major General McDowell, commanding Department of the East, and were very perfect. At a quarterpast tweive o'clock the funeral escort, consisting of the two permanent companies and band of the depot of Brevet Colonel Pierson; two companies of the United States Marine corps, from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, commanded by Brevet Lieutenant Colonel Broome; six companies of the First United States Artillery, from Forts Schuyler, Hamilton and Wads-worth, under command of Brevet Brig-adier General J. A. Haskin, and a squadron of the Third cavairy, National Guard, commanded by Captain Lambert, assembled in East Twelfth street and formed in line in front of the late restdence of General Gates, the marines at the left and the squadron of cavalry at the right.

There was very little delay in completing the ar-rangements in the house. The pallbearers-Brevet Major General Harvey Brown, Brevet Brigadier General J. J. Abercrombie, Brevet Brigadier General C. S. Merchant, Brevet Brigadier General Hinckley, Brevet Major General Heintzelman and Brevet Major General Butterfield, in charge of the ceremoniesassembled in the room where the body was depos ited some time before the arrival of the troops. The latter officer, in the absence of General Loomis, acted as palibearer, and directed a subordinate to command the escort. The coffin, which was uncovered in the front parlor that the friends of the deceased officer might have an opportunity of looking on the face of the General for the last time, was of black wainut, richly ornamented with silver. There was no foureral service held in the house, arrangements having been made for an impressive ceremony at Trinity church. At a few minutes before one o'clock the coffin was borne by the palibearers to the door, and the troops presented arms. While the military remained at the "present" the coffin was borne on the shoulders of the bearers slowly from the left to the right of the line and back again, while the Governor's Island Eand played the "Dead March." The troops then broke by companies to the left into column, and the march commenced, the coffin in the meantime being ited some time before the arrival of the troops.

and Friends of the Deceased and Mourners.

The marching down Broadway was slow, solemn and imposing. A large concourse of people occupied the sidewalks and followed the hearse. Loew bridge was crowded in every part by respectable people, who had selected that place for the best view of the funeral cortége. Arrived at Trinity church, the military were drawn up in line and presented arms while the hearse was carried inside the sacred edifice. Every seat in the building was filled by mourners and spectators. Major General McDowell, Major General Bickles, Brevet Brigadier General Doubleday, General Duryan and a number of other onliers of the regular and the militia services were present as spectators. The Rev. Br. Vinton, assisted by the Rev. Ir. Ogliby, conducted the service. The magnificent organ of the church pealed forth the accompaniment to the psalm chanted by the choir, and the immense congregation joined in the seleran and impressive service.

The service being concluded, the cofin was again.

gregation joined in the selemn and impressive ser vice.

The service being concluded, the could was again deposited in the hearse, the troops formed in the same order as before and the funeral cortese moved down to Hamilton ferry, where the Pope Catlin, the H. S. Smith and other steamers were already waiting to receive it. The ting from the Navy Yard took on board the two companies of marines and the artillery companies embarked on a steamer for the harbor forts to which they belonged. At four o'clock the steam whistles announced that all was ready for the steam whistles announced that all was ready for the start, and the steamers moved from the wharf. Arrived at Governor's Island the marines formed in the artillery jetty and led the way to the graveyard, where the troops were drawn up in line and presented arms, while, in fulfilment of the last wish of General Gates, the body was interred with full military honors in the midst of many comrades of the old army.

honors in the midst of many comrades of the obsarmy.

General Gates was at the time of his decease the oldest officer in the United States army, having entered the Military Academy in 1801 and graduated in 1806. He was in 1812 aide-de-camp to Brevet Brigadier General Moses Porter, and was engaged in the capture of Toronto, Canada, April 27, 1813; bombardment and capture of Fort George, May 27, 1813; participated in the Fiorida war, 1836-38, against the Seminole Indians, and in the war with Mexico was Governor of Tampico. He was retired from active service June 1, 1863, and at the time of his demise was a member of the general court martial now in session in New York city.

FIRE IN THE BOWERY.

The Amerius Hotel Burned-One Man Killed-

Two Persons Wounded.

At six o'clock last night a fire occurred on the Bowery, occupied by Peter Wilkins as the Americus Hotel. The building has been occupied as a lodging house in the upper stories. The fire was first discovered in the office of the hotel, situated directly at the top of the first stairs, and before it could be checked it extended to the stairs and cut off all egress for the lodgers and family. Mr. Wilkins at the time of the breaking out of the fire was in the basement. The bookkeeper, Charles Lohse, was asleep in the fourth story, and, being unable to escape by the stairs that the flames were lapping up, attempted to let himself down by means of bedding, which gave way and let him fall to the sidewalk, from which he sustained injuries in the shape of a broken leg and broken arm. The proprietor's wife was in the front room of the second story, and, not knowing of the fire until it had made considerable headway, had a narrow escape, but was safely rescued. Mary Lohrmann, a German girl, was visiting in the house, and in jumping from the second story window broke one of her legs. After the fire had been extinguished the body of a lodger named McCon, or McCan, was found in one of the rooms, where he had been suffocated by the smoke.

one of the rooms, where he had been subcased by the smoke.

Mr. Wilkins' loss is from $3,000 to $9,000; insured in the Lafavette Insurance Company for $3,000 and in the Columbia for $3,000.

The first floor was occupied by Schmitt & Kohne as a lager beer saloon, whose property was damaged by water. They are insured in the Commonwealth Insurance Company for $1,500 on stock and fixtures.

The basement was occupied as a concert saloon by William Pitshaw. whose premises were damaged slightly by water, but not thoused.

The building is owned by United States Commissioner Bidwell, whose loss will be from $2,500 to $3,000. Insured, but for how much and in what companies is not known.
